1 Chosen topic: Deepfakes in time of conflict or war

2 Introduction: Fictional setting that illustrates the context

Scenario: The Fabricated War Crime A deepfake video depicting soldiers from one nation massacring civilians in a disputed region goes viral hours before a UN Security Council vote. The footage shifts international opinion and triggers sanctions — all based on footage that never happened.

2.1 Paragraph 1: The scenario

Present the scenario as your fictional but plausible ethical dilemma. Write it in a slightly narrative tone to draw the reader in — this is meant to capture attention. Describe the setting (a disputed conflict zone, a live UN vote), the action (the deepfake video going viral), and the impact (sanctions imposed on false grounds). Keep it concise, around 150–200 words.

2.2 Paragraph 2: The aim of the essay

Transition from the scenario into what the essay will actually do. Briefly state the topic (deepfakes in conflict), why it matters ethically, and what the essay will cover — the issue, the stakeholders affected, and the solutions considered. This grounds the reader after the narrative opening and signals the academic intent. Around 100–150 words is plenty here.
